

The University of New South Wales
School of Education

is proud to host

The Inaugural Summer Institute on Language Teaching

Catch up with the latest research and developments in language learning and teaching through intensive summer courses with leading experts in the field.

January 19-23, 2009

Mathews Building, UNSW

Director: Professor David Nunan

Courses Offered:

- Developing and Using Language Assessments (Prof. Adrian Palmer)
- Discourse Analysis for Language Teachers (Prof. Brian Paltridge)
- Teacher Language Awareness and Grammar Pedagogy (Dr. Stephen Andrews)
- Technology in Language Education (Prof. Denise Murray)
- Controversies in Academic Writing (Dr. Sue Starfield)
- Introduction to Second Language Acquisition (Prof. David Nunan)
- Statistical Analysis for Language Assessment (Prof. Lyle Bachman)
- An Introduction to Language and the Brain (Prof. MaryAnn Christison)
- Assessment for Learning: From Theory to Practice (Prof. Chris Davison)

For more information,
call (+61 2) 9385 8004,
email education.events@unsw.edu.au,
or visit <http://education.arts.unsw.edu.au/news/>